

Qatar Supports Operations against Specific Military Targets Used by Syrian Regime in Its Chemical Attacks

Doha / Information Office / 14 April

The State of Qatar expresses its support for the American, British and French military operations against specific military targets that the Syrian regime uses in its attacks against the innocent civilians.

The Syrian Regime's continued use of chemical weapons, and its continued indiscriminate attacks against civilians, and lack of consideration for the resulting humanitarian and legal consequences of those crimes require that the international community take immediate actions to protect the Syrian people and deny the regime the use of internationally prohibited weapons.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs holds the Syrian regime fully responsible for the heinous crime committed by using chemical weapons against the civilians in the town of Duma in eastern Ghouta, alongside with other war crimes and crimes against humanity that have killed children, women and civilians throughout the past years. We also appeal to the UN Security Council to shoulder its responsibility to stop the crimes of the regime, stop its use of internationally prohibited weapons and bring those responsible for those crimes to the international justice.

The State of Qatar supports all the international efforts aiming to reach a political solution based on the communiqué of Geneva 2012 and the relevant resolutions of the Security Council to achieve the legitimate aspirations of the brother Syrian people for security, stability and maintenance of the national unity of Syria.
