and Michael:

I'd like to request information on the following:

- Or, what date was the Comptroller informed that the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative (USAI) funds were being put on hold? Was this funding suspended at the request of the Office of Management and Budget?
- When did the Comptroller's office inform offices within the Department of the hold placed on USAI funds? Was the suspension of these funds conveyed to offices in writing? If so, please provide the Committee any such directive and any Apportionment document relating to the suspension of the USAI funds.

Thank you for your help in this matter.

Subject: Quick CR Highlights...more to come

- provides that the CR ends at the earlier of the enactment of a full-year appropriations bill or November 21, 2019.

Appropriations are under the same terms and conditions, including relevant authorities and fiscal year 2019 appropriations bills.

- prevents the Department of Defense from beginning new multi-year activities during the period of the CR with limited exceptions.
- enables the Department of Defense to provide background investigation services to the federal government by exempting activities billed in advance from counting toward the statutory cap on Defense Working Capital Funds for these types of transactions.
- extends for another year funding for the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative that would otherwise expire after September 30.

see Becky Leggieri's email below askfog us to "share the apportionment showing that the f1.mdfog has been released for Ukraine." OMB did not add any language in the most recent apportionment document "releasing" the LSAI funds. Instead, they took the "hold" footnote off that prevented obligations. since the apportionment is not an internal document, I think we need to share it with the Hill in response to HAC-D's request. Before we do, suggest you let Mike Cuffey know.

This article appears to reference the two FY 2019, Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative (USAI) tranches of support, totaling $250 million.

For reference, the USAI tranche 2 coordination package is attached.

We will obtain the USD(PH) signed congressional notification letters and produce an executive summary in the morning.

Pentagon to send $250M in weapons to Ukraine

AMERICAN
OVERSIGHT

by Russ Read

June 19, 2019 01:17 PM

The Department of Defense plans to send $250 million in military equipment to Ukraine to assist in building up the country's military capabilities as it continues to counter Russian-backed forces in its eastern provinces.

The aid package will include sniper rifles, grenade launchers, and counter-artillery radars for the Ukrainian Navy, special operations forces, and land troops. Electronic warfare detection equipment, night vision technology, and military medical equipment will also be included. This additional equipment brings total U.S. security assistance to Ukraine to $1.5 billion since 2014, according to the Pentagon.

"I think the provision of security assistance to Ukraine is vitally important. I think it has had an impact both psychologically as well as militarily on the professionalization and the capacity of the Ukrainian forces," Kurt Volker, the U.S. special representative for Ukraine, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at a Tuesday hearing.

"I think it's also important that Ukraine reciprocate with foreign military purchases from us as well, and I know that they intend to do so."

The assistance comes at a pivotal moment for Ukraine's newly minted president. Volodymyr Zelensky, a popular comedian who won a landslide victory in April. Zelensky has made ending the Russian-backed insurgency in Ukraine's eastern Donbas region his top political priority. The conflict remains in an uneasy stalemate following international attempts to broker a ceasefire. Tensions spiked in November when Russian forces captured and detained 24 sailors following an attack on three Ukrainian vessels.

"We must become Icelanders in football, Israelis in defending our native land, Japanese in technology," Zelensky said during his swearing-in speech in May.

"Our first task is to achieve a ceasefire in Donbas."

Volker told senators the United States should continue to add maritime and air defense capabilities to the Ukrainian arsenal as Russia continues to pose a threat in the Black Sea.

"I think it's important that NATO stand up to make clear that all of us have an interest in the freedom of navigation, the open access, the economic development of the region, and the security of the region," he said.

The U.S. created the European Deterrence Initiative in 2014 in response to Russia's annexation of Ukraine's Crimea territory. Congress authorized the sale of lethal aid to Ukraine that year, but the Obama administration did not sign off on the provision due to concerns that offensive weapons could escalate tensions. U.S. support was limited to non-lethal aid until President Trump reversed the policy in July. His administration proposed a 10% cut to the fund in this year's

Rick Berger, a former Senate Budget Committee staffer who studies defense budgets for the American Enterprise Institute, told the Washington Examiner there is broad bipartisan support for continuing aid to Ukraine. He expects Congress will increase Ukrainian military support, saying there is minimal concern regarding escalation on Capitol Hill.

"These aid packages are very well tailored to the things that, by and large, the Ukrainian military actually needs," Berger said. "Congress cares about Ukraine in a bipartisan fashion, and I wouldn't be surprised if [aid] goes up again in this year's" National Defense Authorization Act.

The fate of next year's defense budget remains unclear, however, as congressional leaders wrangle over the federal budget as a whole.

Per discussion, Ms. Milam just cleared this package and found a minor typo on page 13 of TAB B (Rep. Eliot has one l in his name, not two}. See the corrected version in the first attachment. The rest of the package is unchanged.

It should now be on its way to the IJSD(C) FO, so it might be a good time to ping_ Still hoping to get to USD(P) for review and signed by COB. Thw-sday add package them up for delivery to Congress by Ule time the courier departs for the Hill early Friday afternoon.

Per discussion, this Ukraine package (USP001420-19) is still with TMs Megan Milam from Comptroller BAA. As soon as it clears her desk, it will go to Monique Dilworth. Ms. Dilworth's staff informs me that she is standing by to clear it quickly as soon as she receives it. After Ms. Dilworth clears, it will need to go to Ms. McAndrew or Ms. McCusker for final USD(C) clearance.

Request that you call the USD(C) MAs to ask for their help with shaking it loose. DASD Cooper has pinged multiple times (see below) and my counterpart is tracking that A/ASD has now cleared, PD Sendak also requests that you add this to the Tasker Tracker, if you haven't already.

Notification - Defense Reform Certification and Tranche Two//
SUSPENSE. Thursday, May 16

Colleagues,

I wanted to highlight for your attention a high profile and time sensitive Congressional Notification package on Ukraine that my staff sent out to your teams requesting coordination by next Thursday, May 16. This is a package that has A/SD visibility due to Ukraine's importance in the strategic competition with Russia.

I would greatly appreciate your assistance with expediting review to help DSCA meet the tight contracting timelines associated with obligating all USAT funds before the end of FY 2019.

Many thanks in advance and please let me know if you have any questions.

Best,
Lama

Subject: TIME SENSITIVE COORDINATION REQUEST Fiscal Year 2019 Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative Congressional
Notification - Defense Reform Certification and Tranche Two//
SUSPENSE: Thursday, May 16

Colleagues,

Request coordination from DASO SC, DSCA, DTSA, Joint Staff, Comptroller, LA, and OGC no later than Thursday, May 16 on the attached Congressional Notification package for the FY19 Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative defense reform certification and tranche 2. We are coordinating with State concurrently.

While I recognize this is a relatively short coordination timeline request, we have more time pressure than usual to obligate all of this assistance before the end of the fiscal year. DASD Cooper will likely reach out to your Principals tomorrow to ask for their help with expediting coordination.

Please note that we are also concurrently seeking A/SecDef concurrence that Ukraine has sufficiently met our defense reform certification conditions, in accordance with previous SecDef guidance. We will keep you posted with any feedback, but we ask that you process coordination within your component under that assumption.

I have uploaded all the documents and assigned the tasks to each of your components in CATMS (USP001420-19).

If you have any questions, please contact both myself and (b) (6) (b) (6)

Many thanks!

Anne/Monique,

Of the $250 million provided for USAI as of September 27, 2019, DSCA obligated approximately $179 million, or 71 percent. The execution summary is attached. The total projected obligated amount decreased to $214 million. Therefore, the estimated unobligated amount is approximately $35 million.

Subject: [Non-DoD Source] Questions on Ukraine funding
Importance: High

Mike and tmIII—we have several questions about Ukraine funding. Please feel free to provide us answers as they are available to speed things along, rather than waiting on all responses to be completed.

1. Please compile an execution history of the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative, to include the approximate dates of appropriations, notifications, NDAA certifications, apportionments and obligations for FY18 and FY19.

j)vr rn-tf5

expired since the initiative was started and if so, how much and why?

3. When was the prohibition on lethal aid lifted and when did we start providing such aid and in which account and for what purpose?
4. Provide copies of the notification,s sent to the congressional defense committees for the 2019 Ukraine funds. Is DoD now executing the same spend plan as was provided in the earlier notifications? At the time those notifications were sent, were the funds available to DoD for execution? If so, why were they not obligated soon after the notifications were sent?
5. Will the remaining funds rescinded/re-appropriated under the CR need to be re-notified; or, if the Department hasn't changed those plans, can they just be obligated? What steps is DOD taking to obligate those funds by the end of the CR period i.e. November.
6. At the time of the submission of the 2019 budget request, did DoD have a plan for how the $250 million for Ukraine in the PB would be spent? If so, did DoD encounter any need to change or alter that spend plan between the time of the budget submission and the provision of those funds by Congress in the September 2018 omnibus appropriation?
7. How many contracting actions (approximation is okay) are needed to obligate the 2019 funds? What is the main challenge to obligating the available funds in the time between the September apportionment and the end of the fiscal year?
8. Press reports indicate that DoD conducted a review of the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative. Was there a review of the program, who conducted it, what was evaluated, and what were the conclusions of the review?

Thank you,
Erik

15.. U.S. orders Freeze of Foreign Aid, 'Bypassing congress
New York Times, Aug. 8 (0415), Pg. A12 | Edward Wong

The Trump administration has ordered the state Department and the United States Agency for International Development to freeze much of the remaining money for foreign aid this year, in a move that suggests the funding could be cut altogether.

The decision, issued in a letter by the office of Management and Budget, covers a broad range of foreign aid that Congress had already approved. It halted, as of Saturday, the agencies' ability to distribute what the decision's critics estimated to be $2 billion to $4 billion of funding, The State Department and the aid agency, commonly known as U.S.A.I.D., must give "an accounting" of all "unobligated resources" of foreign aid, meaning funding that has not been officially designated yet for specific purposes, the letter said.

The letter identified 10 areas of aid to which the freeze would apply, including development assistance, global health, contributions to international organizations, international narcotics control and peacekeeping activities.

The money under review covers the fiscal years 2018 and 2019, which ends on Sept. 30. Agencies often wait until the end of a fiscal year to designate funds.

"This administration's contempt for congress is astounding," Representative L. Engel, Democrat of New York and chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said in a statement on Wednesday. "When Congress decides how much we spend on foreign assistance, it isn't a suggestion. It's the law, backed up by the constitution."

critics of the order noted that the funding was less than one-tenth of one percent of the federal budget.

"In a reckless and irresponsible move, O.M.B. appears set on taking a sledgehammer to one of the most minuscule parts of the entire federal budget that would significantly damage America's security and economic interests -- and thwart congressional authority," said Liz Schroyer, the chief executive of the U.S. Global Leadership coalition, a nonprofit group that is an advocate for American diplomacy and counts large companies and nongovernmental organizations as members.

The order came at the start of a long congressional recess, but lawmakers are asking the State Department about the decision. A senior Democratic aide said on Tuesday that congress had allocated the funds to protect national security interests. The move would set a precedent for future administrations to ignore spending bills and eliminate spending obligations, the aide said, speaking on the condition of anonymity because members of congress were still determining how to respond.

A spokeswoman for the budget office, Rachel Semmel, said that federal agencies had a responsibility to properly use the money provided by congress. "In an effort to ensure accountability, OMB has requested the current status of several foreign assistance accounts to identify the amount of funds that is unobligated," she said.

A State Department representative acknowledged the review and said only, "No decision has been made on what will be done with those funds." Additional questions were referred to the office of M. H. and Budget.

The New York Times obtained a copy of the office's letter on Tuesday. The Washington Post first reported on the letter on Monday.

The Trump administration has proposed drastic cuts to foreign aid in all its budget proposals, but congress has rejected those moves each time. President Trump has criticized foreign aid in general, cutting aid to Palestinian refugees and three central American countries, among others. He has said the Central American nations must prevent their citizens from trying to migrate to the United States. After the review, the office of Management and Budget could return money for projects it considers unnecessary to the Treasury Department, in a process known as rescission. The office would send a rescission package to congress, which would then have 45 days to decide whether to approve ending the funds.

The office's gambit is based on timing, its critics say. Congress is in recess until Sept. 9, so even if it rejects a rescission package, the state department and U.S.A.I.D. will have only until the end of that month; the fiscal year ends, to designate the funds.

It will fall at least until the budget office finishes its review. If the office recommends that the Treasury, Congress must approve the action within 45 days or the agencies keep the funds. But the aid agency's widow to designate the money opens only after congress acts or the 45 days expires.

Last year, the office made a spoiler move six weeks before the end of the fiscal year, also as Congress was in recess, secretary of state Mike Pompeo opposed the budget director, Mick Mulvaney, over the decision, and members of Congress also voiced concern. The White House dropped the action. But even before that, Mr. Trump and Mr. Mulvaney's office attempted to push a $15 billion rescission package through congress. That package, which was submitted in May 2018 and covered cuts across federal agencies, was rejected by a margin of one vote in the senate. It was the first time in nearly two decades that a president had submitted a rescission package, which included at least $334 million in foreign aid. In December, the Government Accountability office ruled that the administration had no legal authority to make strategically timed attempts to halt and cancel funding in an effort to undermine Congress's appropriations power.

The letter this year arrived at the state Department as Mr. Pompeo was in Australia on a diplomatic trip, Mr. Pompeo is considered the most powerful of the president's cabinet members, though he sometimes loses policy arguments to other senior officials. He tends to stay closely aligned with Mr. Trump. Analysts and administration officials say Mr. Pompeo, a former congressman, may run for a Senate seat representing Kansas in 2020 or for the presidency in 2024.

As we discussed earlier, OMB has asked for a spend plan for Ukraine.

Obligation Status (not reported to Congress): DSCA has obligated $11.2M (of Tranche 1 plan) to date (as of July 22, 2019), and they anticipate obligating the remaining balance by the end of FY 19. They can't give us an obligation plan, but they have in the past obligated 98% to 99% of their funds by the end of FY.

Attached is a list of planned USA [procurement, which was submitted to Congress in March (Tranche I) and Mary (Tranche 2). As indicated below, OMB is looking for this.

Please let me know if you want me to respond with this information.

Below is an email I intend to send to USDP, Ge and SD/Os FOs with an update on Ukraine direction. Please take a look and advise of any edits or clarifications? Thanks.

EM

John, Paul, Pete, Eric

Good morning. Last night, we received another footnote - pasted below - from OMB directing no further obligations on Ukraine funding until August 26, 2019.

(b) (5)

I expect another call with OMB later this morning but wanted to make sure you were in the loop on the latest.

Vr,
Elaine

OMB 8/20/19 Footnote:

Amount appropriated, but not yet obligated as of the date of this reappropriation, for the Ukraine Power Initiative (Initiative) are not available for obligation until August 26, 2019, to allow for an interagency process to determine the best use of such funds. DOD may continue its planning and casework for the Initiative during this period.

Amounts apportioned, but not yet obligated as of the date of this reapportionment. for the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative (Initiative) are not available for obligation until August 5, 2019. to allow for an interagency process to determine the best use of such funds. Based on OMB's communication with DOD on July 25, 2019, OMB understands from the Department that this brief pause in obligations will not preclude DOD's timely execution of the final policy direction. DOD may continue its planning and casework for the Initiative during this period.

Based on guidance I have received and in light of the Administration's plan to review assistance to Ukraine, including the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative, please hold off on any additional DoO obligations of these funds, pending direction from that process. I understand that DOD will continue its planning and casework during this period and that this brief pause in obligations will not preclude DOD's timely execution of the final policy direction.

We intend to formalize the pause with an appropriation footnote to be provided later today.

Given the sensitive nature of the request, I appreciate your keeping that information closely held to those who need to know to execute the direction. Please let me know if you have any questions.

Pentagon to send $250M in weapons to Ukraine

by Miss Read

June 19, 2019 01:17 PM

The Department of Defense plans to send $250 million in military equipment to Ukraine to assist in building up the country's military capabilities as it continues to counter Russian-backed forces in its eastern provinces.

The aid package "will include sniper rifles, grenade launchers, and counter-airillery radars for the Ukrainian Navy, special operations forces, and land troops. Electronic warfare detection equipment, night vision technology, and military medical equipment will also be included. This additional equipment brings total U.S. security assistance to Ukraine to $1.5 billion since 2014, according to the Pentagon.

"I think the provision of security assistance to Ukraine is vitally important. I think it has had an impact both psychologically as well as militarily on the professionalization and the capacity of the Ukrainian forces," Kurt Volker, the U.S. special representative for Ukraine, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at a Tuesday hearing.

"I think it's also important that Ukraine reciprocate with foreign military purchases from us as well, and I know that they intend to do so."

The assistance comes at a pivotal moment for Ukraine's newly minted president, Volodymyr Zelensky, a popular comedian who won a landslide victory in April. Zelensky has made ending the Russian-backed insurrection in Ukraine's eastern Donbas region his top political priority. The conflict remains in an uneasy stalemate following international attempts to broker a ceasefire. Tensions spiked in November when Russian forces captured and detained 24 sailors following an attack on three Ukrainian vessels.

"We must become Icelanders in football, Israelis in defending our native land, Japanese in technology," Zelensky said during his swearing-in speech in May.

"Our first task is to achieve a ceasefire in Donbas."

Volker told senators the United States should continue to add maritime and air defense capabilities to the Ukrainian arsenal as Russia continues to pose a threat in the Black Sea.

"I think it's important that NATO stand up to make clear that all of us have an interest in the freedom of navigation, the open access, the economic development of the region, and the security of the region," he said.

The U.S. created the European Deterrence Initiative in 2014 in response to Russia's annexation of Ukraine's Crimea territory. Congress authorized the sale of lethal aid to Ukraine that year, but the Obama administration did not sign off on the provision due to concerns that offensive weapons could escalate tensions. U.S. support was limited to non-lethal aid until President Trump reversed the policy in 2017, though his administration proposed a 10% cut to the fund in this year's budget proposal.

Rick Berger, a former Senate Budget Committee staffer who studies defense budgets for the American Enterprise Institute, told the Washington Examiner there is broad bipartisan support for continuing aid to Ukraine. He expects Congress will increase Ukrainian military support, saying there is minimal concern regarding escalation on Capitol Hill.

"These aid packages are very well tailored to the things that, by and large, the Ukrainian military actually needs," Berger said. "Congress cares about Ukraine in a bipartisan fashion, and I wouldn't be surprised if [aid] goes up again in this year's" National Defense Authorization Act.

The fate of next year's defense budget remains unclear, however, as congressional leaders wrangle over the federal budget as a whole.

Hi Eric,

We would greatly appreciate your insight on this issue. L3Harris Technologies has been informed that there is a "hold" on FMS cases that are funded through Ukraine security Assistance Initiative (USAI). USAI funding is 2019 defense-wide O&M funding. It has gone through the congressional notification process and will expire on September 30.

We have been working with DSCA on executing (b)(3); 10 USC 130c through the FMS process. The FMS order's support the provision of (b)(3); 10 USC 130c to the Ukrainian military. The U.S. has supported providing the Ukrainians with this type of "non-lethal" support in the past.

CECOM notified us that the cases are on hold pending an OMB approval to continue with contracting actions. We've engaged with OMB to understand the issue but have been told there are larger policy issues involved here.

The Wffltii:uJ-din this case and allowing the funding it? expfre is extremely serious for us as the IQE have been built and are ready to ship,

I'd greatly appreciate any guidance that you may be able to provide. Is this a temporary hold or one that has been solidified? Could we work with DoD to ship these capabilities to other partners/allies if U.S. policy has changed on providing USAI funding to the Ukrainians? Any information would be appreciated as we try to map out next steps for the business.

Many thanks for your time and consideration.

Trump Put Hold on Military Aid Ahead of Phone Call With Ukraine's President
Administration's review of military funds to the country is at center of broadening probe
Wall Street Journal | Rebecca Ballhaus, Andrew Restuccia, Siobhan Hughes

WASHINGTON-President Trump asked his acting chief of staff to place a hold on $391 million in aid to Ukraine more than a week before a July phone call in which he urged his Ukrainian counterpart to investigate Joe Biden's son, according to a person familiar with the matter, a revelation that comes as an investigation into the president's dealings with Kiev is nrnshroomi-ng on Capitol Hill.

Congress had flled provid sending military aid to Ukraine to help the country defend against Russian aggression. But Mr. Trump told his advisers, including then-national security adviser John Bolton and Defense Secretary Mark Esper, began discussing in July the prospect of putting a hold on the funds while the administration reviewed them, a senior administration official said.

In July, Mr. Trump directed acting White House chief of staff Mick Mulvaney to do just that, and the decision was passed along to lower-level officials during a July 18 meeting, according to the official. The Washington Post first reported the news of the president's directive to Mr. Mulvaney.

The official said the request reflected the president's concerns about how the U.S. is spending aid money and whether U.S. allies are adequately contributing. The Pentagon has long been in favor of pressing forward on military aid.

Another administration official said the reasons given internally for the decision to hold up the funds were the lack of support from other countries to Ukraine and concerns about corruption in the country. Mr. Trump has repeatedly pointed to corruption in Ukraine in his calls for an investigation of Mr. Biden in recent days.

On Tuesday, Mr. Trump defended withholding aid, saying it was out of frustration with the level of support provided by other countries. In comments to reporters at the United Nations, Mr. Trump said: "The [Ukraine] funds were paid, fully paid but my complaint has always been, and I'll continue to withhold again and I'll continue to withhold until such time as Europe and other nations contribute to Ukraine."

The EU has provided more than $15 billion ($16.5 billion) in loans and assistance to Ukraine since 2014.

That Mr. Trump had already directed a review of military aid to Ukraine when he asked the country's president to investigate his potential political opponent is likely to intensify investigations in Congress into the connection between the two actions.

Or, Mr. Trump, Mr. Mulvaney suggested a link between his delay of military aid to Ukraine and what he said were concerns about corruption in the country, but he denied threatening to withhold the support if Kiev didn't pursue an investigation of Mr. Biden, his potential 2020 opponent.

"It's very important to talk about corruption," Mr. Trump said at a United Nations event. "If you don't talk about corruption, why would you give money to a country that you think is corrupt?"

Later in the day, he said he didn't draw that connection in his call with the president of Ukraine. "I did not make a statement that you have to do this or I won't give you aid," he said. "I didn't put any pressure on them whatsoever." But, he added: "I think it would probably, possibly have been OK if I did."

On July 25, Mr. Trump in a phone call urged Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky to work with his lawyer, Rudy Giuliani, on a probe that would produce information about Mr. Biden and his son, The Wall Street Journal reported. Mr. Giuliani had met with an official from the Ukrainian prosecutor general's office the previous month to discuss such a probe.

Messrs. Trump and Giuliani have pressed for an inquiry into Mr. Biden's anticorruption efforts in Ukraine while he was vice president and while his son Hunter Biden had business interests there. Ukraine's prosecutor general at the time said earlier this year he had no evidence of wrongdoing by Mr. Biden or his son. On Saturday, Joe Biden said he had never discussed with his son any overseas business dealings and accused Mr. Trump of abusing his office.

The administration's reason for putting a hold on the Ukraine funds—which for weeks this summer proved elusive to lawmakers who were eager for answers—is at the center of the expanding investigation on Capitol Hill into whether there was any connection between the review of foreign aid and efforts by the president and Mr. Giuliani to urge Ukraine to investigate Mr. Biden. The examination of Mr. Trump's dealings with his Ukrainian counterpart is likely to escalate this week as Congress continues to probe a whistleblower complaint concerning Mr. Trump, an aspect of which involves the Ukraine call, according to a person familiar with the matter.

Ukrainian officials earlier this month expressed concern to U.S. senators that the aid had been held up as a penalty for resisting that pressure. "They worried the aid that was being cut off to Ukraine by the president was a consequence for their unwillingness at the time to investigate the Bidens," said Sen. Chris Murphy (D., Conn.), who earlier this month met in Ukraine with Mr. Zelensky and other officials.

The Ukrainian Embassy in Washington didn't respond to a request for comment on Mr. Murphy's remarks.

On Monday, Senate Minority Leader Chuck Schumer (D., N.Y.) called on Majority Leader Mitch McConnell (R., Ky.) to launch an investigation touching on who directed the suspension of aid, saying it should be part of a broader probe. Mr. McConnell, speaking on the Senate floor, said he urged the administration to release its hold on the aid "throughout July, August and early September," adding that he twice urged Mr. Esper to do so and made a similar plea to Secretary of State Mike Pompeo.

The Democratic chairmen of the House foreign affairs, intelligence and oversight committees also sent a letter to Mr. Pompeo threatening to issue a subpoena if the department didn't begin turning over related documents. The State Department didn't respond to a request for comment.

For weeks, as lawmakers lobbied Mr. Trump to release the Ukraine money personally and called officials across his administration, they kept getting shifting responses, according to multiple interviews over the past few weeks.

Mr. Trump said that other countries weren't spending enough to bolster Ukraine, according to his aides. He said he was not involved with the matter. On Monday, Mr. Trump reiterated that complaint.

Others in the administration offered different explanations. On Sept. 3, Vice President Mike Pence, who had met a day earlier with Mr. Zelenskyy, said that in the meeting, Mr. President Trump had to make clear, we have great concerns about issues of corruption."

That day, a bipartisan group of senators in a letter to Mr. Mulvaney and the Office of Management and Budget said the funding was "crucial to the long-term stability of Ukraine" and urged them to immediately release the funds.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee members were also receiving muddled answers. "There was a lot of consternation about why this was held up and what was going on," said Sen. Chris Coons (D., Del.), a member of the panel, "I don't remember ever hearing a clear response about what the holdup was."

Fed up, senators coalesced around an amendment that Sen. Dick Durbin (D., UI.) had sought to attach to a fiscal 2020 defense-spending bill to force the release of funds to Ukraine. The day before the Senate Appropriations Committee was scheduled to vote, the White House released $250 million in military aid, along with $141 million in State Department funds.

Democrats are now raising questions about whether the president successfully enlisted others in the Trump administration to carry out the pressure campaign on Ukraine. The U.S. Embassy in Ukraine told Mr. Murphy earlier this month that it wasn't involved in demanding the Ukrainian president mount an investigation, a statement that Mr. Murphy took as a sign that diplomats had refused to get involved because they believed such conduct was improper.

Elaine - per our conversation this evening, DoD is authorized to proceed with all processes necessary to obligate the previously discussed $61 million of funds in connection with the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative. We understand that these funds must be competitively bid, and that this will take some time. Please provide us by Thursday (Aug 15th) with an estimated time frame for each contract or grant, specifically including the expected date of obligation for each of those contracts/grants. In any event, we request that you notify OMB at least two days in advance of any obligating event in connection with these funds.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mike

John and Elaine,

There was a follow up item (b) (5). Can you all provide additional detail on the recent security cooperation funds to Ukraine?

<https://dod.defense.gov/News/News-Releases/News-Release-View/Article/1879340/dad-announces-250m-to-ukraine/>

Specifically,

What was the funding used for? i.e., did it go to U.S. firms?

Who funded it?

What do other NATO members spend to support Ukraine?

Trump slow-walks Ukraine military aid meant to contain Russia

By Caitlin Emma and Connor O'Brien

The Trump administration is slow-walking $250 million in military assistance to Ukraine, annoying lawmakers and advocates who argue the funding is critical to keeping Russia at bay.

President Donald Trump asked his national security team to review the funding program, known as the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative, in order to ensure the money is being used in the best interest of the United States, a senior administration official told POLITICO on Wednesday....

Good morriing.

OMB Intehds to send us another footnote today with direction to cont-1nuing holding until Friday.

Normally would not send you this level of detail, but given the situation, providing the below assessment for bqckground on the increasing risk of execution. Thanks to the DSCA team for continued excellent responsiveness on this.

Good morning. Last night, we received another footnote - pasted below - from OMB directing no further obligations on Ukraine funding until August 26, 2019,

(b) (5)

(b) (5)

(b) (5)

I expect another call with OMB late this morning but wanted to make sure you were in the loop on the latest.

Also just received word that HAC-D traveled to Ukraine earlier this month and has sent us an RFI regarding funds being held up.

Vr,
Elaine

OMB 8/20/19 Footnote:
Amounts apportioned, but not yet obligated as of the date of this reapportionment, for the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative (Initiative) are not available for obligation until August 26, 2019, to allow for an interagency process to determine the best use of such funds. ODD may continue its planning and casework for the Initiative during this period.

OMB continues to emphasize that DoD is free to continue taking all preparatory planning and funding steps short of actually incurring recordable legal obligations of USAI funding.

Hi Eric,

I would greatly appreciate your insight on this issue. L3Harris Technologies has been informed that there is a "hold" on FMS cases that are funded through Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative (USAI). USAI funding is 2019 defense-wide Off-Wi 11rlj, that has gone through the congressional notification process and will expire on September 30.

David

Just ari PYI - we are getting a lot of interest and questions from the Hill (both House and Senate) today of our projected obligations for USAT now that funds are moving.

HACSAC are completing the draft CR and seriously contemplating rescinding and re-appropriating some of the FY 2019 funds to be available during the CR period, I will talk with OMB and then try to provide a reliable estimate tomorrow.

David/Elaine/Eric:

Based on guidance I have received and in light of the Administration's plan to review assistance to Ukraine, including the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative, please hold off on any additional DoD obligations of these funds, pending direction from that process. I understand that DOD will continue its planning and casework during this period and that this brief pause in obligations will not preclude DOD's timely execution of the final policy direction.

We intend to formalize the pause with an apportionment footnote to be provided later today.

Given the sensitive nature of the request, I appreciate your keeping that information closely held to those who need to know to execute the direction. Please let me know if you have any questions.

I expect the $125 M we notified in March may be but the $125M notified in May probably isn't all obligated. Checking exact status now and Will get back to you.

Attached paper we provided to OMB on Friday regarding similar question. It does not have info on S.F. or other NATO support to Ukraine, but answers the other basics as a start.

John and Elaine,

There was a follow up item (b) (5). Can you all provide additional detail on the recent security cooperation funds to Ukraine?

><https://fdod.defeme.gov/News/News-Releases/News-Release-View/Article/1879340/dod-announces-250m-to-ukraine/><

Specifically,

What was the funding used for? i.e., did it go to U.S. firms?

Who funded it?

What do other NATO members spend to support Ukraine?

Ukraine Security Assistance: U.S. Industry Benefits and International Burden-Sharing

What is funding under the FYW19 Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative (OSAI) used for?

The package consists of $250M in security cooperation funds for additional training, equipment and advisory efforts to build the capacity of Ukraine's armed forces, ultimately enhancing U.S. security.

This includes the provision of equipment to support training programs and operational needs, including capabilities to enhance Ukraine's Land and Special Operations Forces, Navy and Naval Infantry and National Guard, and some funds to provide associated training, transportation, and administrative costs.

Did funding go to U.S. firms?

Almost all of the dozens of vendors are U.S. companies, and the 110 U.S. companies are authorized suppliers of specific equipment for the U.S. military. A list of vendors is attached.

Who funded the OSAI?

Congress provided $250M in funds through the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2019.

Braider comments on Ukraine burden sharing

Ukraine remains committed to providing for its own security and building a strategic partnership with the United States.

- Spends more than 5% of GDP on security and defense;
- Spent $1.1 billion on U.S. defense articles in 2018; and
- Negotiating to purchase Javelin anti-tank missiles and (b)(3) 10 USC 130c

What do other NATO members spend to support Ukraine?

Below is an overview of security assistance contributions to Ukraine by key NATO Allies and partners for which we have readily available data. These activities complement U.S. and Ukrainian efforts to counter Russian aggression.

Canada: Approximately (b)(3) 10 in security assistance since 2014

- Training: 100 U.S. trainers ((b)(3) 10 USC 130c), equipment: $10 million
- $75 million total assistance (includes humanitarian, development, and financial) since 2014
- Contributes a Senior Advisor on Defense Reform

UK: Approximately $1 billion in security assistance since 2014

- Training: (b)(3) rotational trainers ((b)(3) 10 USC 130c), equipment: (b)(3)
- Contributes a Senior Advisor on Defense Reform
- Recently committed to increasing Black Sea security efforts, including training Ukraine's Navy and Naval Infantry and conducting port visits to Odesa, Ukraine.

UNCLASSIFIED//FOUO

Lithuania; Approximately (b)(3) 10 in security assistance since 2014

-Training: (b)(3) 10 USC 130c; Equipment: - (lethal aid)

-Contributes a Senior Advisor on Defense Reform

-Recently transferred nearly (b)(3) 10 rounds of small arms ammunition

Poland: Approximately (b)(3) 10 in security assistance since 2014

-Training: (b)(3) 10 USC 130c

-Contributes a Senior Advisor on Defense Reform

Denmark & Sweden: Approximately (b)(3) 10 each since 2018

Training: (b)(3) 10 USC 130c

NATO: Approximately (b)(3) 10 through this fund contributions from 36 countries

-Trust Fund projects include support for: countering improvised explosive devices; medical rehabilitation; command, control, communications, and computers (C4); cyber defense; logistics.

-Foreign Ministers agreed to a Black Sea Security package in April 2019, to include increased support for Ukraine (strengthening of maritime forces and coast guards, port visits, exercises, info sharing).

The European Union also contributes billions of euros in economic assistance to Ukraine:

- (b)(3) 10 in official economic development assistance from 2014-2018

- (b)(3) 10 in humanitarian assistance since 2014; and

Pentagon to send $250M in weapons to Ukraine

by Russ Read

June 19, 2019 01:17 PM

The Department of Defense plans to send $250 million in military equipment to Ukraine to assist in building up the country's military capabilities as it continues to counter Russian-backed forces in its eastern provinces.

The aid package will include sniper rifles, grenade launchers, and counter-artillery radars for the Ukrainian Navy, special operations forces, and land troops. Electronic warfare detection equipment, night vision technology, and military medical equipment will also be included. This additional equipment brings total U.S. security assistance to Ukraine to $1.5 billion since 2014, according to the Pentagon.

"I think the provision of security assistance to Ukraine is vitally important. I think it has had an impact both psychologically as well as militarily on the professionalization and the capacity of the Ukrainian forces," Kurt Volker, the U.S. special representative for Ukraine, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at a Tuesday hearing.

"I think it's also important that Ukraine reciprocate with foreign military purchases from us as well, and I know that they intend to do so."

The assistance comes at a pivotal moment for Ukraine's newly minted president, Volodymyr Zelensky, a popular comedian who won a landslide victory in April. Zelensky has made ending the Russian-backed insurrection in Ukraine's eastern Donbas region his top political priority. The conflict remains in an uneasy stalemate following international attempts to broker a ceasefire. Tensions spiked in November when Russian forces captured and detained 24 sailors following an attack on three Ukrainian vessels.

"We must become Icelanders in football, Israelis in defending our native land, Japanese in technology," Zelensky said during his swearing-in speech in May.

"Our first task is to achieve a ceasefire in Donbas."

Volker told senators the United States should continue to add maritime and air defense capabilities to the Ukrainian arsenal as Russia continues to pose a threat in the Black Sea.

"I think it's important that NATO stand up to make clear that all of us have an interest in the freedom of navigation, the open access, the economic development of the region, and the security of the region," he said.

The U.S. created the European Deterrence Initiative in 2014 in response to Russia's annexation of Ukraine's Crimea territory. Congress authorized the sale of lethal aid to Ukraine that year, but the Obama administration did not sign off on the provision due to concerns that offensive weapons could escalate tensions. U.S. support was limited to non-lethal aid until President Trump reversed the policy in 2017, though his administration proposed a 10% cut to the fund in this year's budget proposal.

Rick Berger, a former Senate Budget Committee staffer who studies defense budgets for the American Enterprise Institute, told the Washington Examiner there is broad bipartisan support for continuing aid to Ukraine. He expects Congress will increase Ukrainian military support, saying there is minimal concern regarding escalation on Capitol Hill.

"These aid packages are very well tailored to the things that, by and large, the Ukrainian military actually needs," Berger said. "Congress cares about Ukraine in a bipartisan fashion, and I wouldn't be surprised if [aid] goes up again in this year's" National Defense Authorization Act.

The fate of next year's defense budget remains unclear, however, as congressional leaders wrangle over the federal budget as a whole.
