2 are realistic.

3 (6) The use of such a contract will promote the 4 national security of the United States.

5 (7) During the fiscal year in which such con-

15 JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF.—

16 (1) IN GENERAL.—The Chairman of the Joint 17 Chiefs of Staff shall, in coordination with the Secre-

21 capabilities and capacities of, current and planned 22 integrated air and missile defense technologies and 23 force structure to meet the requirements of the com-
24 batant commands in support of the National De-

16 under subparagraph (A), including the fol-
17 lowing:

18 (i) Projected timelines for develop-
19 ment, procurement, and fielding of needed 20 capabilities to defend against current and 21 anticipated threats, based on intelligence
22 assessments of such threats.

23 (ii) Projected capability and capacity
24 gaps in addressing the threats character-
25 ized and assessed under subparagraph (A),

1 including a delineation of unfulfilled inte-
2 grated air and missile defense require-
3 ments by combatant command.

14 ational basis, distinguish between distinctly dif-
15 ferent threats in the same general class.

16 (B) EXAMPLE.—The Chairman shall, for 17 example, ensure that the assessment is not lim-
18 ited to a broad characterization, such as “cruise 19 missiles”, since such characterization does not 20 sufficiently distinguish between current cruise
21 missiles and emerging hypersonic cruise mis-22 siles, which may require different capabilities to 23 counter them.

24 (4) INTERIM BRIEFING AND REPORT.—

1 (A) INTERIM BRIEFING.—Not later than 2 60 days after the date of the enactment of this 3 Act, the Chairman shall brief the Committees

15 SEC. 1244. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON SUPPORT FOR THE 16 NORTH ATLANTIC TREATY ORGANIZATION.

17 It is the sense of Congress that—

18 (1) the success of the North Atlantic Treaty 19 Organization (NATO) is critical to achieving United 20 States national security objectives in Europe and 21 around the world;

22 (2) NATO remains the strongest and most suc-
23 cessful military alliance in the world, founded on a 24 commitment by its members to uphold the principles 25 of democracy, individual liberty, and the rule of law, 26 and its contributions to the collective defense are in-

1 dispensable to the security, prosperity, and freedom 2 of its members;

3 (3) the United States reaffirms its ironclad
4 commitment to NATO as the foundation of trans-5 atlantic security and to uphold its obligations under 6 the North Atlantic Treaty, including Article 5 of the 7 Treaty;

8 (4) the 2018 National Defense Strategy identi-9 fies long-term strategic competition with Russia as 10 a principal priority and highlights the essential role 11 that a strong NATO alliance must play in imple-
12 menting that strategy and addressing shared secu-
13 rity concerns;

14 (5) the United States should deepen defense co-
15 operation with non-NATO European partners, reaf-16 firm the open-door policy of NATO, and encourage 17 security sector cooperation between NATO and non-18 NATO defense partners that complements and 19 strengthens collective defense, interoperability, and 20 allies' commitment to Article 3 of the North Atlantic
21 Treaty;

22 (6) bolstering NATO cohesion and enhancing 23 security relationships with non-NATO European 24 partners to counter Russian aggression, including 25 Russia's use of hybrid warfare tactics and its will-

1 ingness to use military power to alter the status quo, 2 strengthens the United States security interests for 3 the long-term strategic competition;

4 (7) the continued prioritization of funding for 5 the European Deterrence Initiative, including for 6 purposes of strengthening allied and partner capa-
7 bility and power projection along the eastern flank
8 of NATO, remains critically important;

9 (8) the United States and NATO should con-
10 tinue to cooperate on other major shared challenges, 11 such as the COVID-19 pandemic; and 12 (9) the policy of the United States should be to 13 work with its NATO and other allies and partners

14 to build permanent mechanisms to strengthen supply
15 chains, enhance supply chain security, fill supply 16 chain gaps, and maintain commitments made at the 17 June 2020 NATO Defense Ministerial, particularly 18 regarding pandemic response preparations.

19 SEC. 1245. LIMITATION ON UNITED STATES FORCE STRUC-
20 TURE REDUCTIONS IN GERMANY.

21 (a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-

23 (1) the Federal Republic of Germany continues
24 to be a strong ally within the North Atlantic Treaty

1 Organization (NATO) and a critical ally of the 2 United States;

3 (2) the presence of the United States Armed 4 Forces in Germany serves as a strong deterrent to 5 Russian Federation military aggression and expansion in Europe and as an essential support platform 6 for carrying out vital national security engagements
7 in the Middle East, Africa, and Afghanistan;

8 (3) the presence of approximately 34,500 mem-9 bers of the United States Armed Forces deployed to 10 Germany, and the ability to increase that level as 11 necessary in response to global security challenges, 12 is essential to supporting NATO's operations and its 13 collective deterrence against threats;

14 (4) reducing the number of members of the 15 United States Armed Forces in Germany during a 16 time of growing threats in Europe would constitute 17 a grave strategic mistake that would undermine 18 United States national security interests and weaken 19 NATO; and

20 (5) the United States should continue—

21 (A) to maintain and strengthen its bilat-
22 eral relationship with Germany; and 23

1 (B) to maintain a robust military presence
2 in Germany so as to deter aggression against 3 the United States and its allies and partners.

4 (b) LIMITATION.—The Secretary of Defense may not 5 reduce the total number of members of the Armed Forces 6 serving on active duty who are stationed in the Federal

8 the date on which the Secretary, in consultation with the 9 heads of other relevant Federal departments and agencies, 10 submits to the appropriate congressional committees a 11 written assessment that contains the following:

12 (1) An analysis of whether the reduction in the 13 total number of Armed Forces serving on active duty
14 who are stationed in Germany would be in the na-15 tional security interest of the United States and 16 would not detract from United States military pos-
17 ture and alignment in the European theater.

18 (2) An analysis of the impact of such a reduc-
19 tion on the security of the United States as well as 20 the security of allies and partners of the United 21 States in Europe.

22 (3) An analysis of the impact of such a reduc-23 tion on the deterrence and defense posture of the 24 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

1 (4) An analysis of the impact of such a reduc-
2 tion on the ability of the Armed Forces to execute 3 contingency plans of the Department of Defense, in-4 cluding ongoing operations executed by United 5 States Central Command and United States Africa
6 Command.

7 (5) An analysis of the impact of such a reduc-
8 tion on military families or additional costs for relo-9 cation of associated infrastructure.

10 (6) An analysis of the impact of such a reduc-
11 tion on military training and major military exer-
12 cises, including on interoperability and joint activi-
13 ties with allies and partners.

14 (7) A description of the consultations made 15 with United States allies and partners in Europe, in-16 cluding a description of the consultations with each 17 member of NATO, regarding such a reduction.

18 (8) A description of the capabilities that would 19 be impacted in Germany and any actions designed to 20 mitigate such a reduction.

21 (9) A detailed description of the requirements
22 for the Department of Defense to effectuate any re-
23 location and redeployment of members of the Armed 24 Forces from Germany and associated relocation of 25 military families.

1 (10) A detailed analysis of the impact of the re-2 duction and redeployment of military capabilities on 3 the ability of the United States to meet commit-4 ments under the North Atlantic Treaty as well as 5 the ability to support operations in the Middle East
6 and Africa.

7 (11) A detailed analysis of the impact of such 8 reduction and redeployment on the implementation 9 of the National Defense Strategy and on Joint 10 Force Planning.

11 (12) A detailed analysis of the cost implications 12 of such a reduction and redeployment, to include the 13 cost of any associated new facilities to be con-14 structed or existing facilities to be renovated at the 15 location to which the members of the Armed Forces
16 are to be moved and stationed and the costs associ-17 ated with rotational deployments.

18 (c) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES DE-
19 FINED.—In this section, the term “appropriate congres-20 sional committees” means—

21 SEC. 1247. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON SUPPORT FOR COORDI-
22 NATED ACTION TO ENSURE THE SECURITY
23 OF BALTIC ALLIES.

24 It is the sense of Congress that—

1 (1) maintaining the security of the Baltic states
2 of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania is critical to 3 achieving United States national security objectives;

4 (2) the Baltic states play a crucial role in stra-
5 tegic efforts to deter Russia, maintain the collective 6 security of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization
7 (NATO) alliance, and strengthen bilateral and mul-8 tilateral defense; and

9 (3) the United States should continue to pursue 10 efforts consistent with a comprehensive, multilateral 11 assessment of the military requirements of the Bal-

7 SEC. 1260. STATEMENT OF POLICY AND SENSE OF CON-
8 GRESS ON THE TAIWAN RELATIONS ACT.

10 United States—

11 (1) that the Taiwan Relations Act (Public Law 12 96–8; 22 U.S.C. 3301 et seq.) and the Six Assur-13 ances provided by the United States to Taiwan in 14 July 1982 are the foundation for United States-Tai-15 wan relations;

16 (2) to fully pursue the deepening of the exten-
17 sive, close, and friendly relations of the United 18 States and Taiwan pursuant to the Taiwan Rela-19 tions Act (Public Law 96–8; 22 U.S.C. 3301 et 20 seq.), the intent of which is to facilitate greater co-

5 United States decision to establish diplomatic rela-

7 the expectation that the future of Taiwan will be de-8 termined by peaceful means, and that any effort to 10 ful means, including boycotts and embargoes, is a 11 threat to the peace and security of the Western Pa-

12 cific area and of grave concern to the United States;

13 (5) that the increasingly coercive and aggressive
14 behavior of the People’s Republic of China towards 15 Taiwan is contrary to the expectation of the peaceful 16 resolution of the future of Taiwan; and

17 (6) as set forth in the Taiwan Relations Act
18 (Public Law 96–8; 22 U.S.C. 3301 et seq.), to main-

4 sufficient self-defense capability, including by—

5 (A) supporting acquisition by Taiwan of 6 defense articles and services through foreign

12 fare, advanced command, control, communica-
13 tions, computers, intelligence, surveillance, and 17 to requests of Taiwan for defense articles and 21 to maintain a sufficient self-defense capability;

22 (D) examining the potential for expanding
23 professional military education and technical

25 military personnel of Taiwan;

1 (E) increasing exchanges between senior 2 defense officials and general officers of the 3 United States and Taiwan at the strategic, pol-4 icy, and functional levels, consistent with the 5 Taiwan Travel Act (Public Law 115–135; 132 6 Stat. 341), especially for the purposes of—

7 (i) enhancing cooperation on defense
8 planning;

9 (ii) improving the interoperability of 10 the military forces of the United States 11 and Taiwan; and

12 (iii) improving the reserve force of 17 any policy guidance related to United States-Taiwan 18 relations is fully consistent with the statement of 19 policy set forth in subsection (a);

20 (3) the Secretary of Defense should ensure that 21 policy guidance related to United States-Taiwan de-22 fense relations is fully consistent with the statement 23 of policy set forth in subsection (a); and 24 (4) the Secretary of State, the Secretary of De-
