

To the Citizens of the State of Georgia:

I owe you an apology.

I wish I had never involved myself in the post-election activities that brought me before the court. I have never before been in trouble with the law and I meant no harm to anyone.

I did what I did on my own. I was not acting on behalf of any organization or any other person or persons.

I became involved when I observed what I thought were some irregularities which I reported to law enforcement authorities. I was concerned. I went to the State Farm Arena on election night, to the subsequent recounts as an observer and was ultimately invited to Coffee County. Although I certainly did not mean to violate any laws, I now realize that I did and have accepted responsibility for my actions.

I offer my sincere apology to the Citizens of the State of Georgia.

Sincerely,
